

are worshipped. Abhishekam is offered with all eleven prescribed ingredients, and is also offered to Goddess Pārvati in the first phase.

Bilva Samarpana śloka is chanted during the second phase and the pañchākshari during the third, to enable us devotees to participate. Śivarātri is not complete without honoring Śri Nandikeśwarar, the vāhanā (vehicle) of Lord Śiva. In the fourth phase, as is offered during Pradosham, Śri Nandikeśwarar abhishekam is offered along with one for Lord Śiva, concluding the abhishekam portion of Śivarātri.

Special Alankārams (decorations) for Lord Śiva are offered after each of the four abhishekams. Alankārams give us the satisfaction to see our beloved Lord the way we want to see Him.

Śri Śiva Pooja* by children (on Sunday, Feb. 11th at 4:00 pm), is an excellent opportunity for children to participate in this important ritual. For our religion to flourish and endure, it's imperative for us to ensure that it is embraced and appreciated by the next generation. A temple is an ideal place where such exposure and inculcation could happen simply by participating in such activities.

Śri Śiva-Pārvati Kalyāna Mahotsavam (celebration of the wedding of the Divine couple), is the ideal closing ritual. As is evident by a pivotal śloka chanted during a divine kalyāna utsavam, the sole purpose of a divine Kalyāna utsavam is jagath rakshanam (protection of the world) and lokanām mangalam (happiness of the world), leading to loka kshémam (global prosperity and harmony).

This global harmony can be achieved through Lord's grace. Goddess is the personification of dayā (compassion). It is therefore fitting that the ability of the Lord to give, be united with the compassion of the Goddess to do so. By symbolically uniting them, we have contributed towards global harmony, as well as the welfare of our near and dear ones.

Hārati is the showing of the lamp in front of the Lord in a circular motion. This signals the completion of a ritual. As the lamp illuminates the Deity, our mind opens to receive Divine thoughts. Mahā-Hārati is the concluding ritual of the day. Prasādam is the sacred food that is offered to and blessed by the Lord, and later distributed. This is a good way to do annadānam (food charity).

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE RITUALS - MAHĀ ŚIVARĀTRI

Bhakti (devotion) is essential for both religious and spiritual pursuits. To develop bhakti, it is imperative to form and nurture a personal relationship with our kula (family) or ishta (chosen) devata (Deity).

To nurture our bhakti for Lord Śiva, ancient sages have earmarked the annual Mahā Śivarātri as optimal for contemplation, introspection, fasts and ritualistic worship as prayerful offerings. It is believed that those who observe these will earn His bountiful grace, are cleansed of their sins, freed from worldly anxieties, and will grow spiritually.

Rituals uniquely combine physical, oral and mental prayer, and form a very important aspect of religious discipline. They are prescribed in our scriptures, and are regarded as pre-requisites to spirituality, as they prepare us to receive Divine knowledge. Understanding the rituals and their purpose could enhance our appreciation of them.

Ganapati and Navagraha Homams (Vedic fire worship) are offered first, to invoke, honor and seek the blessings of Lord Ganeśa to remove all obstacles, and the Navagrahas to nullify any negative influences of the planets. Poornāhuti, the final and complete āhuti (offering) of a homam, is an auspicious time to receive blessings. With the blessings of Guru Sage Agastiyar, the Mahotsavam duly begins.

Abhishekam (divine bath), and Rudra Triśati (300) Nāma Archana, which is auspicious as it is from the Vedas, follow. In the Sphatika (quartz crystal) Linga Ashtottara Nāma Pooja, is very sacred as it is the purest and most sought-after natural stone. A kalaśa is a small pot filled with teertha (water), representing a devata (deity.) 108 Kalaśa Sthāpanam (installing of the kalaśas) invokes and invites the Divine spirits into four sets of eleven kalaśas.

That which protects the one who chants it mentally is called a mantra. Japa (Continuous repetition of a mantra) purifies and charges us with the power embedded in the mantra. Certain mantras activate our invisible chakras and energize us. They are also an aid for meditation.

Śri Śiva Moola Mantra, also known as the Panchākshari (the five-syllabled), is chanted continuously while installing the kalaśas, as well as during the Śri Śiva moola mantra japam/homam. This is offered to Lord Śiva for six *kālam*s (times) – in the morning and evening sessions until Śivarātri. The mantra's vibration permeates into the kalaśa water, sanctifying it with Divine śakti (energy). On Śivarātri, one of four sets of kalaśa teertha is poured on the Śivalinga, during each of the four phases, as the final oblation of the abhishekam, to transfer this Divine śakti. An archana, which follows, consists of reciting either 108 (ashtottara-śata), 300 (triśati), or 1,000 (sahasra) nāma (names).

During Pradosham (which occurs twice a month), Lord Śiva and Goddess Pārvati are said to have given darśan as a happy couple. All devas gather around them, and so, is an opportune time to seek blessings from all. Mahā Pradosham is the one that is closest to Sivarātri. This year's, Soma-Pradosham (Monday-Pradosham) is extra special because Mondays are auspicious for Lord Śiva.

Laghu (short) or Mahā (long) Nyāsam (purification) is chanted to systematically purify our body, mind and soul, prior to chanting Śri Rudram. Mahā-nyāsam is very elaborate, recited before offering Rudrābhishekam (abhishekam while chanting Rudram). Śri Rudra (a form of Lord Śiva) as Indra, Agni, Yama, etc. is invoked in our limbs, triggering an immediate feeling of Divine presence.

Śri Rudram is an ancient hymn from the Krishna Yajur Veda, consisting of eleven Namakam (verses beginning or ending with “nama”), which invoke and worship various names and attributes of Lord Śiva, and eleven Chamakam (verses ending with “cha mé”), which lists our ‘wishes’. Rudram will be chanted on all sessions during Abhishekam. Śri Rudra japa (Repeated recitation) would generate intense Divine vibration all through the night.

Lord Śiva is an Abhisheka-priya [He Who loves abhishekam (ceremonial oblation)]. Abhishekams are offered on all four phases of this all-night vigil. Abhishekam is an important aspect of the shodaśopachāra pooja (a formal worship offering sixteen different hospitalities), where the priests invoke the Lord in the Divine image and offers various formalities to the accompaniment of Vedic chanting.

In this Ekādaśavāra Rudrābhishekam offered during the first phase, all eleven anuvākams (sections) of the namakam are chanted followed by one of the eleven anuvākams of the chamakam. This pattern is repeated ekādaśa (eleven) times with each of the other anuvākams of the chamakam. All the Ekādaśa Rudras (eleven forms of Rudra)
