ŠRI RĀGHAVENDRA SWĀMI

Šri Rāghavendra Swāmi, affectionately known to his countless devotees simply as Swāmiji, is a living saint and a legend. He is believed to be an incarnation of Prahlāda, the greatest devotee of Lord Vishnu.

Born in the year 1595 to a poor but pious couple in Bhuvanagiri, Tamil Nadu, Swāmiji was named Venkatanātha by his parents to show their gratitude to Lord Venkatešwara, Who blessed them with this divine child. Venkatanātha was orphaned early in his life and was brought up by his sister Venkamma and brother-in-law Lakshmi Narasimhāchārya who introduced him to the Sanskrit language. Soon Venkatanātha was sent to Sudheendra Teertha Swāmi of Sree Mutt (a monastery in Kumbakonam) from whom he learned the scriptures, philosophy, grammar, literature, logic etc. Thereafter, following a brief stay in his hometown, Venkatanātha returned to Sree Mutt to serve Sudheendra Teertha and learn more from him.

In course of time, Sudheendra Teertha was inspired by a divine vision to name Venkatanātha as his successor of Sree Mutt. In the year 1623, after Venkatanātha took sanyāsa and was conferred the name Rāghavendra Teertha, he was installed as the head of Sree Mutt. During his years of stewardship of Sree Mutt Sri Rāghavendra Teertha Swāmi or simply Swāmiji as he became known, visited several holy shrines throughout Bhārata Varsha, winning the hearts of rulers and peasants alike. He also wrote commentaries on the scriptures and several scholarly works, which stand out as a testimonial to his intellectual caliber. When Swāmiji was in his early 90's, he built a temple for Lord Venkatešwara in Manchāle village on the banks of Thunga river. This temple is now known as Mantrālayā.

There are innumerable accounts of miracles associated with Swāmiji and almost all of his devotees have had first-hand experience of at least one such miraculous episode. On one occasion, the ruler of the land came to know of Swāmiji's greatness and wanted to test him. One day when Swāmiji was performing his daily worship, the ruler sent him a basket filled with meat and covered with cloth. Unaware of the contents of the basket, Swāmiji sprinkled water on the basket and offered its contents to the Lord at the conclusion of the worship. When Swāmiji removed the cloth covering, it was found that the basket was filled with delicious fruits. Learning this, the ruler hurried to Swāmiji, prostrated before him and sought his forgiveness.

Swāmiji had very subtly revealed that although he would be physically present for less than 100 years, his writings would be popular for 300 years and he would be among his devotees for 700 years, blessing them in every way. Hence Swāmiji is known as a 'living saint'.

On krishna paksha dwitiya day in the month of šravana in the year 1693, Swāmiji entered the Brindāvan erected by him in Manchāle and sat in a meditative pose. He instructed his followers to fill the Brindāvan with 700 sāligramams and install an idol of Šri Rāma on top of it. It is believed that seated in this Brindāvan, Šri Rāghavendra Swāmi continues to bless his devotees to this day.
